What happens when you read to your child?

- ◆ Your child hears the sound of your voice
- ◆ Your child's imagination grows
- ◆ Your child learns new word meanings and how language works
- ◆ Your child learns reading matters
- ◆ You make good memories

Reading to a child says "You are important and I love you."

Richer than me you can never be;

I had a mother who read to me.

Every home can be language rich!

Did You Know?

We have a free parent resource library with educational toys, games, children's books and resources like books, DVD's and CD's on parenting? Any adult can be patron and your children are welcome to come with you.

We are open 9am to 4pm Monday through Friday.

We offer evening parenting classes and family forum discussions.

We go out into the community to teach classes like

- ◆ Avoiding Homework Hassles
- ◆ 10 Ways to help Your Child succeed in school
- ◆ Great Parent/Teacher Conferences
- ◆ The power of Reading 20 Minutes a Day
- ◆ How to get your child ready for Kindergarten
- ◆ Ten Quick Tips from Love and Logic Parenting
- ◆ Grandparenting with Love and Logic

And more. All free of charge!

Carol Stock Kranowitz, author of the "Out of Sync Child" will be offering training workshops at the June 12, 2010 conference. Carol has experience working with children with Sensory Processing Disorder. Some children have trouble coordinating sensory input resulting in "meltdowns", anxiety and unusual behaviors. She will be coming to teach from Maryland and we thank the State Baby Watch program for sponsoring this opportunity for educators and parents. Don't miss this!
